FREIGHT IN ACADIANA

The Acadiana Metropolitan Planning Area is primarily serviced by three modes of freight infrastructure: truck, rail, and air.

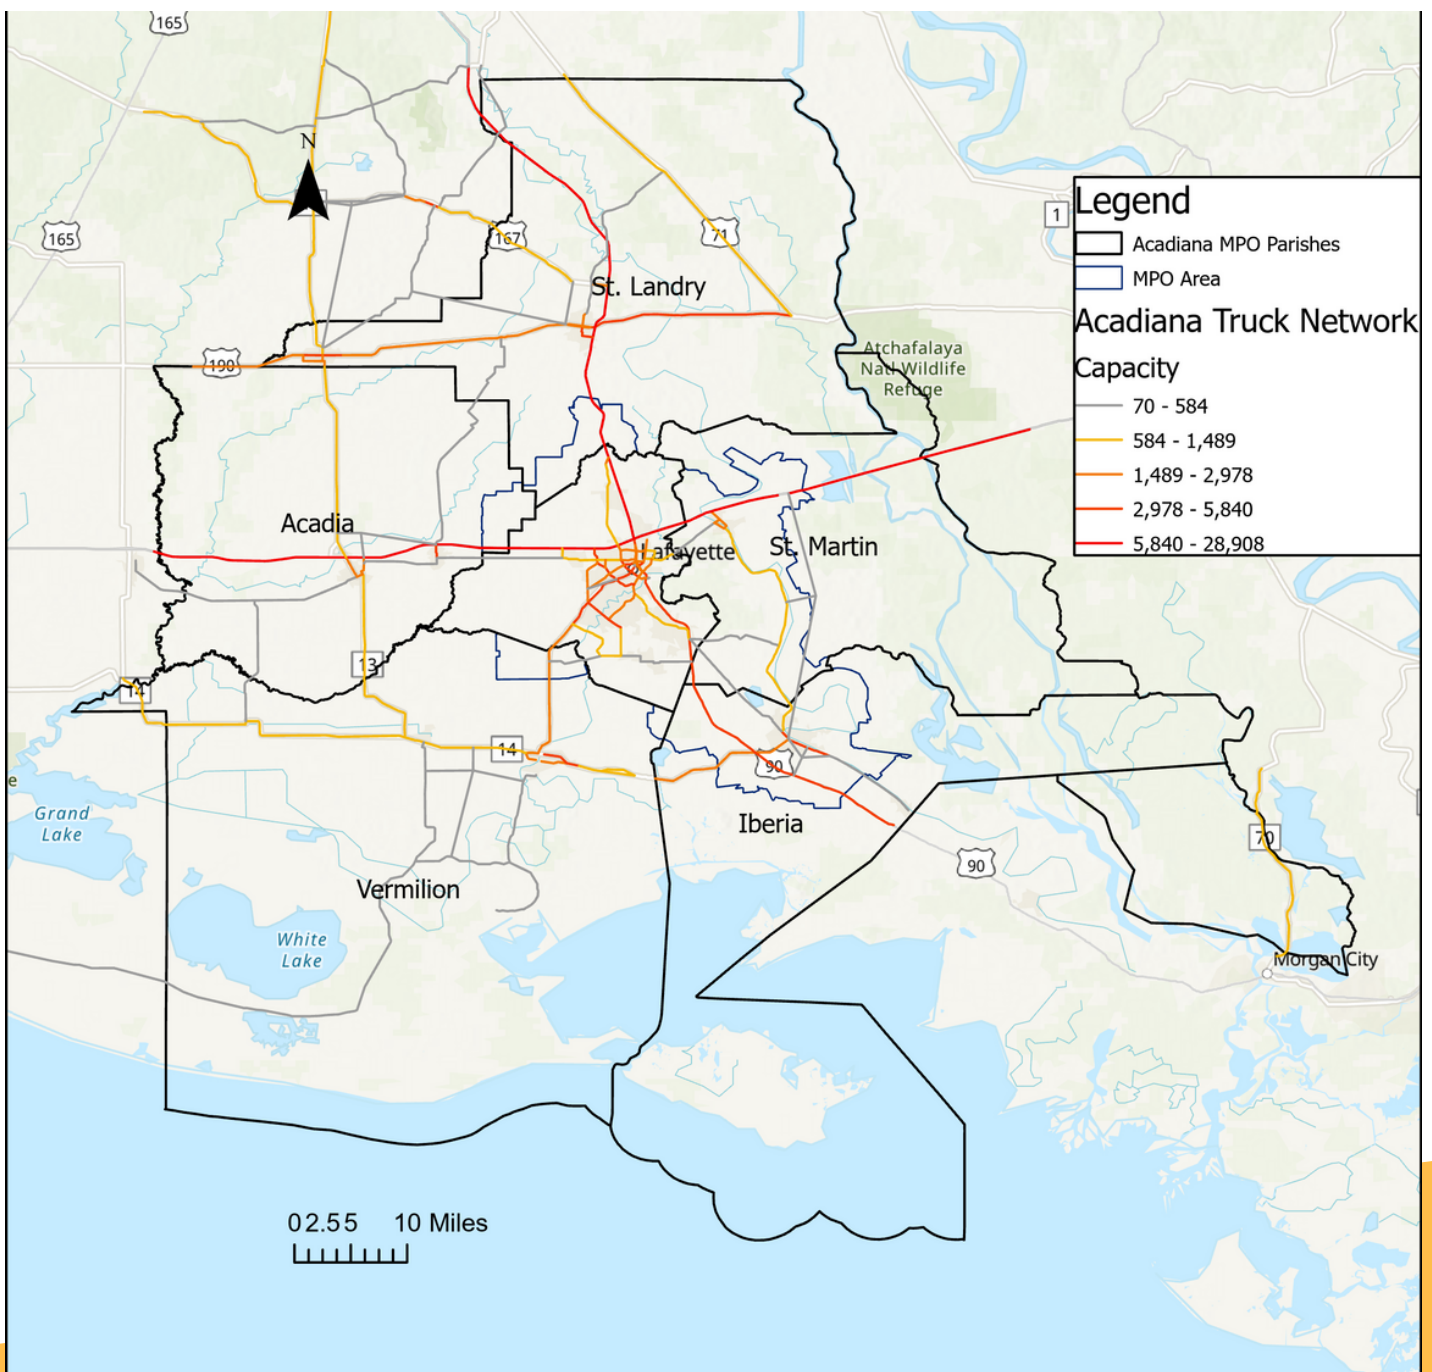

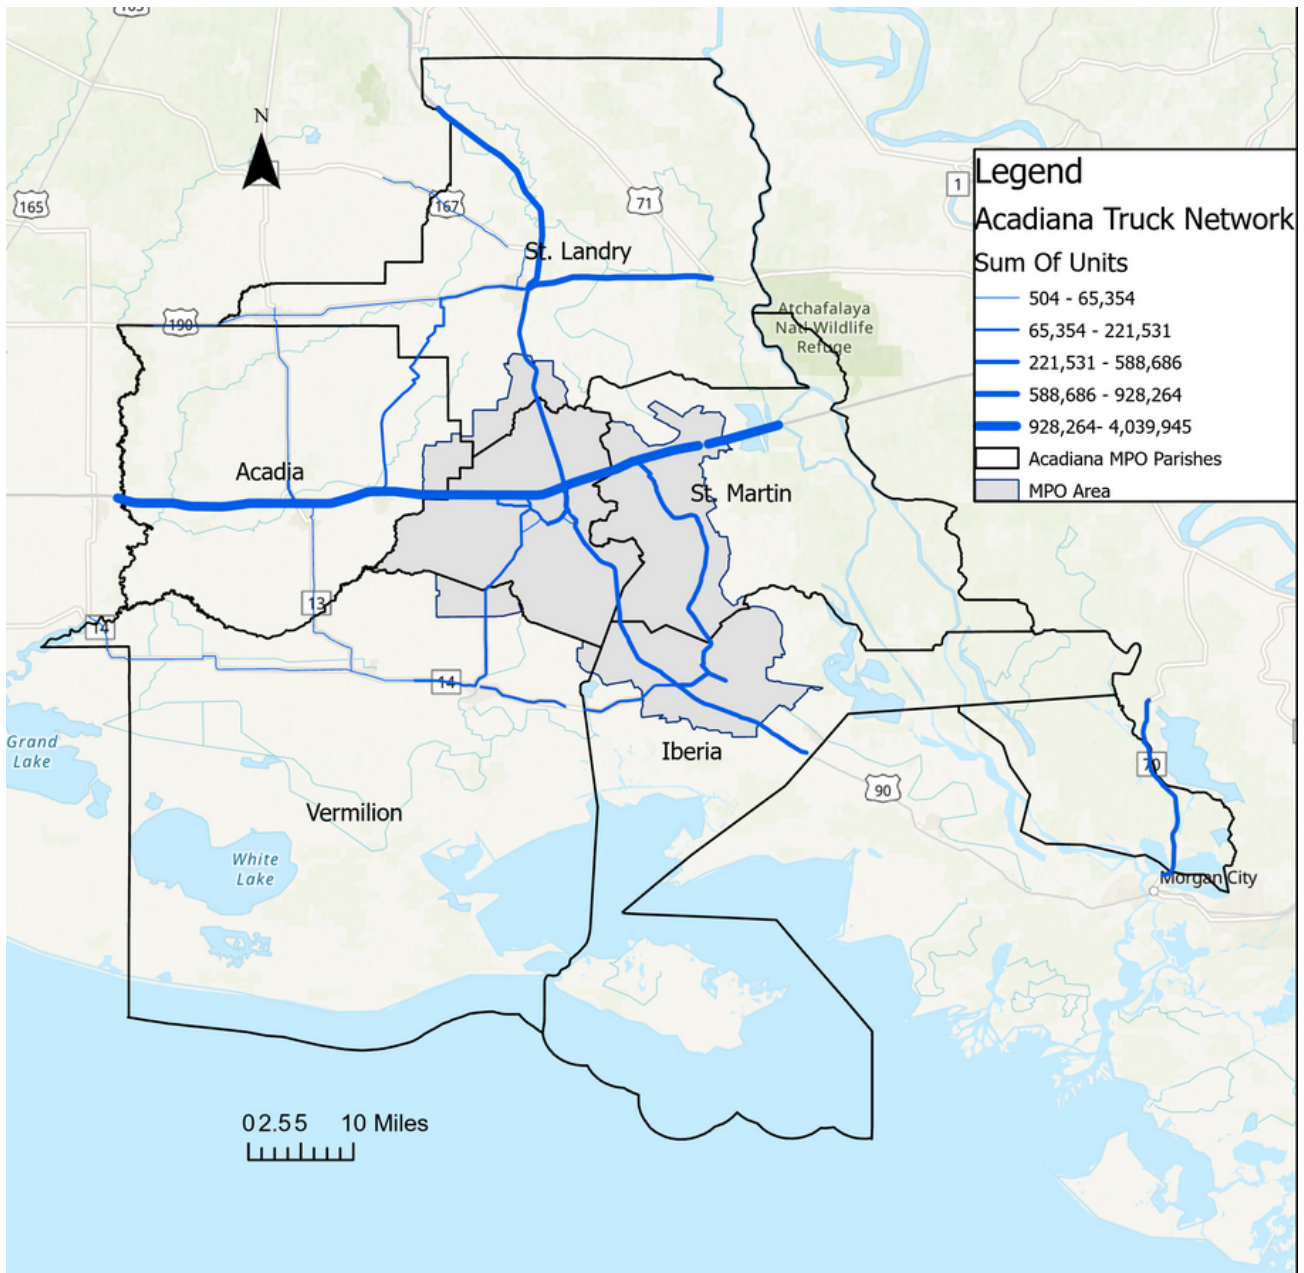

The six parish Acadiana region facilitates inbound and outbound freight shipments from counties around the United States, Canada, and Mexico. These shipments contain a wide variety of goods across different economic sectors, for a total value of $29.77 billion dollars (2019) and 38 million tons of goods.

TRUCK NETWORK

The majority of freight transportation in the Acadiana region is truck movements. Truck traffic primarily concentrated on the Interstate highway system, primarily Interstate 10 that traverses St. Martin, Lafayette, and Acadia parishes.

RAIL NETWORK

Acadiana has 201 rail nodes across 247 miles of rail lines. Over 67% of the lines are maintained by the national rail companies Burlington Northern Santa Fe and Union Pacific, with 32% of the lines under local ownership with the companies Acadiana Railway and Louisiana Delta. There are 5 Intermodal Passenger Facilities in the region.

Rail Facilities in Acadiana

PIPELINE NETWORK

Natural gas is one of Acadiana's largest natural resources, and pipelines densely cross the region in all of the parishes. There are four pipeline terminals in Acadiana - one in Opelousas, two in Breaux Bridge, and one in Forked Island.

PORTS IN ACADIANA

Acadiana has two primary water access facilities in the region: docks and ports. There are 289 dock facilities across all six parishes of the MPO, primarily along waterways such as rivers and bays. There is one principal port, the Port of Iberia, located just outside of the MPO area.

Dock and Port Facilities in Acadiana

FREIGHT EMPLOYMENT FACILITIES

There are a total of 5,152 freight facilities in the Acadiana region, for a total employment of 65,625 in transportation commodity industries.

Lafayette, Vermilion, and Acadia have similar numbers of facilities, between 1,000 and 1,600 facilities. St. Landry has 739 facilities, Iberia has 319 facilities, and St. Martin has 208 facilities.

The majority of workers in Acadiana freight facilities are employed in Warehouse and Distribution Centers and Farm Products.

More than half of the workers are employed in Lafayette Parish, at 33,499 total employees. Vermilion follows at 8,149 employees, Acadia at 7,599 employees, Iberia at 6,676 employees, St. Landry at 6,240, and St. Martin at 3,462 employees.
